Transition to College

CollegeBound Holds Annual Event to Prepare Baltimore City School Scholars for College

Spring 2009

Each year CollegeBound Foundation sponsors pre-college workshops for Baltimore City high school students who have been awarded the Foundation's Last Dollar Grant.

Topics range from concerns the students have about starting college to the resources available to help both students and parents. Topics further address possible road blocks a student might encounter.

Students learn of ways of dealing with a myriad of issues, from roommate concerns to trouble with professors to financial aid to issues of loneliness and isolation many of them may face when dealing with a new situation.

This workshop is sponsored by the CollegeBound Foundation and funded by a wide range of individual donors, corporations, and foundations supporting CollegeBound's mission to encourage and enable Baltimore's underserved youth to pursue a college education.
